

Small cove

This cove is located just to the west of the cobble spit on the north side of the island. It is the former site of a pier that served past inhabitants and the remaining pilings are slowly deteriorating. The cove is a favorite resting spot for gray seals and an occasional harbor seal. In addition, common terns and American oystercatchers nest here amongst the rocks and vegetation.